The People's Column

Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.
To The Bryan Eagle:

This eternal rush and grind of summer school is nearly over. I will sail from New York next Saturday noon on the Mallory S. S. Algonquin for Galveston. I will get home the 23rd of August. This Harvard "Stoop" and "Twang" will blow off when the gentle Texas wind strikes me.

The summer has been a most profitable one for our schools and for me. In the first place it has been of a most utilitarian sort. I have been intensively studying under the most competent instructors the scientific management of public schools. Trial and error management of schools are quite expensive in time and money for school men and communities. The only substitute for this method is a scientific understanding on the part of the superintendent. You can imagine how intently I have measured our schools up one side and down the other in the light of scientific information. While there has been very little loose motion (Continued on page 4)

Secretary Sam E. Eberstadt writes from Floresville: "Fine bunch and a great trip. Sam Fore and wife were instrumental in Floresville showing us a good time. Amos Williams is a wonderful fellow. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson left early this morning for a motor trip to Kerrville where they will visit Mrs. W. P. Moore for a few days.

A. B. Syptak, R. M. Dansby, R. A. Ray and T. H. Halton left today in Mr. Ray's car for a few days' deep water fishing off Galveston.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 14.—Responsibility for the three year love affair between Dr. James Snook and Theora Hix, co-ed he killed last spring, was placed on the shoulders of the girl today by the defense in closing arguments to the jury.

Theora was described as the motivating spirit in the affair that grew up between them.

The defense termed as a "damnable lie" the state's contention that Snook's confession was voluntary.

The case will be placed in the hands of the jury some time this afternoon.

A last minute effort for a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground that the state had failed to prove the manner or means of the death of the Ohio State co-ed was exerted unsuccessfully by Dr. Snook's attorneys at the conclusion of the testimony. Judge Scarlett overruled the motion.

Next the defense asked the court to remove the possibility of a verdict that would carry the death penalty by striking out the charge (Continued on page 5)

"The greatest source of waste in any community is the lack of organization among women for community betterment," said Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, one of several members of the citizens committee who discussed the proposed good roads program for this county at the Lions club luncheon Tuesday. She stated that in her opinion if the women of the county were sold the program and organized to work for it, in conjunction with the other agencies at work, that September 28 would see the success of the proposed bond issue assured.

E. L. Henderson, speaking on the same subject, stated that it was a matter that merited the support of every forward looking citizen and that all must help if the movement were to be successful. E. H. Astin stated that he did not believe the members of the Lions Club had to be sold the merits of the plan but that they, like all other citizens who believed in it, would have to get busy in order to make certain of its success. J. Webb Howell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, also urged the active support of every citizen

New Marriage Law Makes Jail Widow

(By Associated Press)

SAN MARCOS, Aug. 14.—W. S. Rogers, married only a few weeks, is in jail here charged with swindling.

A short time ago Rogers and his bride-to-be left San Marcos in a rent car for Oklahoma where they were married without waiting to comply with the Texas three day marriage law. When the couple returned a driverless car company here said he gave a check for $330.90 to cover the 2,993 miles the machine has been driven.

The check, the driverless company charges, was worthless. And now the new Mrs. Rogers, whose husband has been unable to make bond, must wait until the October term of court to find whether she will remain a wife or become a "jail widow."

Master Farmer Urged To Seek Terrell's Job

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—That an effort would be made to have J. A. Moore of Dallas county make the race for commissioner of agriculture to succeed George B. Terrell was indicated here Tuesday by W. D. Farris of Ennis, prominent in Texas agricultural circles.

No announcement has been made by Moore, but Farris said that the large number of appeals to him from all sections of the state "cannot help but indicate to him statewide support should it be possible to interest him in the race."

For a number of years Moore has been head of the agricultural department of the State Fair of Texas and for several months each fall has supervised the exhibits from farm and orchards representing a majority of Texas counties.

His friends here, informed of his illness, held little hope of his recovery. He is 67 years old and for 21 years has been land commissioner.

East Indian Yogis May Walk On Fiery Coals But City Electrician Warren Says They Burn His Feet

(By Associated Press)

City Electrician I. E. Warren is nursing a lame foot today as a result of contact with live coals following a picnic supper at Pitts bridge on the Brazos on Tuesday evening.

The picnic party of which the Warren family was a part, left the highway and drove the cars down into the sand of the river bed where supper was prepared and served. When the evening was complete and the party prepared to drive back to Bryan it transpired that most of the cars were stuck in the sand.

After lending a boost to each car in turn, the menfolk of the party removed their shoes to pour out the sand and a bit of fun caused Mr. Warren to run unheeding into one of the beds of live coals.

New Marriage Law Makes Jail Widow

(By Associated Press)

SAN MARCOS, Aug. 14.—W. S. Rogers, married only a few weeks, is in jail here charged with swindling.

A short time ago Rogers and his bride-to-be left San Marcos in a rent car for Oklahoma where they were married without waiting to comply with the Texas three day marriage law. When the couple returned a driverless car company here said he gave a check for $390.90 to cover the 2,993 miles the machine has been driven.

The check, the driverless company charges, was worthless. And now the new Mrs. Rogers, whose husband has been unable to make bond, must wait until the October term of court to find whether she will remain a wife or become a "jail widow."

Plan Dedication Of New Schools Next September

Word received this morning from H. L. Durham, superintendent of Bryan schools, now doing special work at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., is to the effect that he expects to be home August 23 or 24. Master Farmer Urged To Seek Terrell's Job

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—That an effort would be made to have J. A. Moore of Dallas county make the race for commissioner of agriculture to succeed George B. Terrell was indicated here Tuesday by W. D. Farris of Ennis, prominent in Texas agricultural circles.

No announcement has been made by Moore, but Farris said that the large number of appeals to him from all sections of the state "cannot help but indicate to him statewide support should it be possible to interest him in the race."

For a number of years Moore has been head of the agricultural department of the State Fair of Texas and for several months each fall has supervised the exhibits from farm and orchards representing a majority of Texas counties.

East Indian Yogis May Walk On Fiery Coals But City Electrician Warren Says They Burn His Feet

City Electrician I. E. Warren is nursing a lame foot today as a result of contact with live coals following a picnic supper at Pitts bridge on the Brazos on Tuesday evening.

The picnic party of which the Warren family was a part, left the highway and drove the cars down into the sand of the river bed where supper was prepared and served. When the evening was complete and the party prepared to drive back to Bryan it transpired that most of the cars were stuck in the sand.

After lending a boost to each car in turn, the menfolk of the party removed their shoes to pour out the sand and a bit of fun caused Mr. Warren to run unshod into one of the beds of live coals.

COUNTY-WIDE LATERAL ROAD PROGRAM IS APPROVED

"PROGRAM IS WORTH MONEY" IS DECISION OF CONFERENCE

Division of $250,000 Fund by Commissioner Districts Is Made, Then Definite Plans for Road Improvement in Each District Decided in District Conferences.

Early next week petitions embodying the lateral road improvement program, worked out for Brazos county at the county-wide conference held at the court house yesterday, and calling for a special election will be drawn and circulated in every rural community, as well as in Bryan and at College. On August 24 these petitions will be presented to the county commissioners court and an especial election asked for September 28, according to present plans, to vote on the question of whether or not the county shall issue bonds in the amount of $1,100,000 for the improvement of main and lateral roads in the county and the retirement of bonds still outstanding, issued in the past by Road Districts 1 and 2.

The delay in presenting the petition to the county commissioners court, made necessary as members of that body are planning vacations, will give an opportunity for a campaign of information and education and for a full consideration of the programs worked out for each commissioner district in the county.

The decision to ask for an election was reached Friday afternoon, at the end of an all day conference, marked by harmony and an evident desire to plan for all sections of the county, on the matter of lateral road improvement. This is to be financed with $250,000 of the bond issue monies, in which delegates from each of the rural election districts, members of the county commissioners court and of the citizens committee that had worked out the proposed program, took part.

"Worth The Money"

The sentiment of the meeting at the close of the days work was reflected in a resolution offered by Charles Merka of Smetana and unanimously adopted. It was to the effect that the meeting was strongly in favor of the program as outlined; that it was worth the money, and that the delegates would pledge themselves to go to their respective communities and work for its adoption. This resolution, on which a rising vote was called for by Chairman John M. Lawrence, was supported by every delegate present.

Fine Spirit Shown

"The meeting yesterday was one of the finest in the history of Brazos county, in my opinion," said W. S. Barron, representative from this county and speaker of the 41st Legislature, and who convinced the state highway commission that $100,000 should be scaled from the county's participation in the cost of building Highways 6 and 21. "When consideration is taken of the fact that every delegate came there representing the needs of his own particular neighborhood, many of which are in need of road improvement, the give and take attitude and the county-wide vision demonstrated in apportioning the money and in working out commissioner district programs, is something for all of us to be proud over and is an index of the high caliber of the citizenship of this county. I am happy that I have been able to work in a group that met in so harmonious a spirit and believe the contacts and the better understanding resulting from Friday's conference will prove of inestimable value in working out the future development of this county along broad community building lines."

"The conference yesterday was one of the most constructive and fine spirited I ever have attended in this county," said John M. Lawrence, chairman of the committee that mapped out the proposed road improvement program. "The unselfish attitude with which the delegates approached the most important question with which we have to deal at this time, namely, the proper improvement of our rural road system, speaks well for their interest in the welfare of Brazos county and if this attitude should be maintained, augurs well for the future growth and development of the entire county. I am greatly pleased with the result of the conference and believe that it marks the beginning of a new era of greater neighborliness and prosperity for all of us."

Early in the afternoon the whole delegation from the rural precincts, sitting with the other members in the conference, worked out an apportionment of the $250,000 among the four commissioner districts that apparently met with the approval of everyone in the conference.

District Conferences Held
After the division of the fund of $250,000 had been made among the four commissioner districts the whole conference committee adopted two resolutions. One was to the effect that if any accrued interest accumulated on the bonds proposed to be issued, that this interest be divided on the same pro rata basis as the $100,000 fund. The second was that the conference recommend to the commissioners court that any bonds issued

The program of improvement in District No. 4 was left to the discretion of Commissioner John M. Moore. He will have available $5,000 from the $150,000 fund for work outside of Road Districts No. 1 and 2 in his precinct, and $27,500 from the $100,000 fund for work over the entire district.

Conference Committee.
The delegates from each rural election precinct chose the following representatives, one from each district, to sit in the conference to make a division among the four commissioner districts of the funds of $150,000 and $100,000.

Scrab Bull Is Haled to Court

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrab Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of its kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentence could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly slipped him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and the trial were threefold, namely: to develop public sentiment for more and better Jerseys; to foster a more cooperative spirit for dairying and livestock growing, and to promote tick eradication.

The banks of Laurel entered into a cooperative arrangement in their efforts for fostering agricultural development and successful farming in the community, offering $2,165 as premiums to the outstanding farm workers throughout the territory during 1929. An instructive booklet has been issued, showing the agricultural activity of the banks, together with announcements of contests for farmers, exhibits in the bank lobbies and prizes offered.

BANKERS DEVELOP NOVEL INSTITUTE

The Georgia Bankers Association in cooperation with the State College of Agriculture has sponsored a series of farmers' institutes in various parts of the State of an entirely new character. The principal feature is a large and comprehensive exhibit transported in four large trucks and set up at each stop. When set up it fills a space 40 by 60 feet and consists of panels, charts, and models on practically every phase of agriculture.

High Cost of Feeding Cattle Tick Of Interest to Farmers, Business Men And Legislators in Louisiana

BY NELL BENTLEY

Dairymen, beef cattle raisers, business men, educational workers and legislators got their feet under the same table during the annual Farmers' Short Course held at the University in Louisiana last week and launched a program of investigation by which they hope to arrive at a decision as to what should be written into a bill to be introduced in the next session of the Louisiana legislature providing for tick eradication campaigns in that state and their ultimate aim is "eradication" and not "campaigns." It is the consensus of opinion among those interested in freeing Louisiana from the handicap and menace of tick fever, that the "perfect bill" must provide for educational campaigns proceeding the actual work of eradication, since the success of dipping campaigns depends so largely upon thoroughness and cooperation, both of which are contingent upon sympathetic understanding on the part of farmers and cattle raisers in the sections where eradication work is being carried on.

The citizens' committee acting in conjunction with a legislative sub-committee, has taken as the basis of their new bill the Ginsberg bill vetoed by the governor of Louisiana last year and they expect to make alterations and eliminations to this bill that will bring it within the scope of approval both of state authorities and of the citizens of the state who will be directly or indirectly affected by the success or failure of the measure in the next session of Louisiana's legal body.

One of the "bones of contention" in the Ginsberg bill and the feature which probably contributed most to its defeat, was the "no fence provision" which places upon the cattle owner the entire obligation of holding cattle that are under dipping regulations out of swamps and river areas designated as tick infested. It is evident that river bottoms and excess lands which are tick infested or where reinfestation may occur when flood water brings the ticks down stream from infested territory, offers one of the most insurmountable problems of the tick eradication game.

Must Confine Cattle.

The law under which Mississippi is carrying on eradication work at this time provides that cattle under dipping regulations must be kept confined and not allowed to enter designated areas that are known to be tick infested, and failure on the part of a farmer to comply with this law results in the cattle being placed under police quarantine for a given length of time and makes the owner of same subject to arrest and prosecution if his neglect to keep his cattle confined serves to hinder the progress and success of eradication work being carried on under supervision of state authorities.

Arkansas is also carrying on eradication campaigns, the while giving intensive study and observation to the results of work there, hoping to eliminate faulty policies and adopt more efficacious methods if such may be determined.

Texas, too, is making progress in the matter of erasing methods whereby the fever tick may be routed from its haunts in the southern and eastern sections of the state and it is likely that the coming session of the Texas legislature (provided it is looking for constructive work to do) will spend a good deal of time and effort on the question formulating laws that will remove entirely from the state one of the greatest of handicaps to agricultural development and rural prosperity.

The presence of the fever tick in Brazos county at this time is not only causing heavy loss among the herds of the county of both pure bred and low grade native stock, but the danger that it presents is keeping local farmers and ranchmen from making investments in purebred animals with which to carry on herd improvement work. In fact it is holding in a state of paralysis a program of dairy development and diversified farm practices that would bring to Bryan and Brazos county a degree of prosperity and financial independence that may never be reached under present economic conditions on a basis of cotton farming.

The only discouraging note so far sounded in connection with the observation tour into successful dairying sections, which has been arranged for a group of Bryan business men and key farmers from every section of the county, was a letter received by County Agent C. L. Beason from T. H. Royder, a former Brazos county boy who is now assistant county agent in Bexar county, in which he advised against any considerable investment in dairy stock and equipment or to provide markets for dairy products until the question of tick eradication has received attention that will assure Brazos county immunity from the tick fever hazard.

Mr. Royder evidently based his advice upon observations made by him in the course of his work with the cow testing division of the Bexar County Herd Improvement Association. He inferred that continued prosperity and ultimate success in the dairy business depends almost wholly upon maximum production at minimum production cost, and also that losses due to exposing imported animals to dangers of fever ticks would be almost sure to reduce profits below an attractive margin, as well as to handicap herd improvement in such a way as to make maximum production an impossibility in ticky territory.

Granting the soundness of Mr. Royder's argument which we in no wise gainsay, it is apparent that the question of bringing Brazos county into the list of those receiving attention from state authorities in the matter of tick eradication work, is one to elicit the support and interest of every citizen of Bryan who covets flourishing business conditions for his entire citizenship, both urban and rural.

Let us suggest a program of night schools or other similar meetings beginning this autumn where both business men and farmers may get together and let authorities and experts bring to them information and educational material that will make us all "tick conscious" long enough to accomplish lasting and final results in a future tick eradication campaign. We have discussed the matter long enough, this is the day for action.

The delay in presenting the petition to the county commissioners court, made necessary as members of that body are planning vacations, will give an opportunity for a campaign of information and education and for a full consideration of the programs worked out for each commissioner district in the county.

The decision to ask for an election was reached Friday afternoon, at the end of an all day conference, marked by harmony and an evident desire to plan for all sections of the county, on the matter of lateral road improvement. This is to be financed with $250,000 of the bond issue monies, in which delegates from each of the rural election districts, members of the county commissioners court and of the citizens committee that had worked out the proposed program, took part.

"Worth The Money"

The sentiment of the meeting at the close of the days work was reflected in a resolution offered by Charles Merka of Smetana and unanimously adopted. It was to the effect that the meeting was strongly in favor of the program as outlined; that it was worth the money; and that the delegates would pledge themselves to go to their respective communities and work for its adoption. This resolution, on which a rising vote was called for by Chairman John M. Lawrence, was supported by every delegate present.

Fine Spirit Shown

"The meeting yesterday was one of the finest in the history of Brazos county, in my opinion," said W. S. Barron, representative from this county and Speaker of the 41st Legislature, and who convinced the state highway commission that $100,000 should be allocated from the county's participation in the cost of building Highway 6 and 21. "When consideration is taken of the fact that every delegate came there representing the needs of his own particular neighborhood, many of which are in need of road improvement, the give and take attitude and the county-wide vision demonstrated in apportioning the money and in working out commissioner district programs, is something for all to be proud over and is an index of the high caliber of the citizenship of this county. I am happy that I have been able to work in a group that met in so harmonious a spirit and believe the contacts and the better understanding resulting from Friday's conference will prove of inestimable value in working out the future development of this county along broad community building lines."

"The conference yesterday was one of the most constructive and fine spirited I ever have attended in this county," said John M. Lawrence, chairman of the committee that mapped out the proposed road improvement program. "The unselfish attitude with which the delegates approached the most important question with which we have to deal at this time, namely, the proper improvement of our rural road system, speaks well for their interest in the welfare of Brazos county and if this attitude should be maintained, argues well for the future growth and development of the entire county. I am greatly pleased with the result of the conference and believe that it marks the beginning of a new era of greater neighborliness and prosperity for all of us."

Early in the afternoon the whole delegation from the rural precincts, sitting with the other members in the conference, worked out an apportionment of the $250,000 among the four commissioner districts that apparently met with the approval of everyone in the conference.

District Conferences Held

After the division of the fund of $250,000 had been made among the four commissioner districts the whole conference committee adopted two resolutions. One was to the effect that if any accrued interest accumulated on the bonds proposed to be issued, that this interest be divided on the same basis as the $100,000 fund. The second was that the conference recommend to the commissioners court that any bonds issued $9,000; Roads in Reliance voting precinct, $19,500; Total, $57,500. Apportionment of $17,500 out of the $100,000 fund: Tabor voting precinct roads, $17,000; Reliance voting precinct roads, $500. Total $17,500.

Grand total to precinct No. 2 from both sources $75,000.

Program for District No. 3

The program for District No. 3 worked out by Commissioner W. F. Wehrman and the delegates from his district, was as follows:

Apportionment of $47,500 out of the $150,000 fund: Road from Robertson county line near Benchley to connect with Highway 21 via I-G-N. Fountain Switch, $23,750; Road from Robertson county line to Highway 21 via Mooring, Steeles Store, Bryan Junction, $23,750; Total, $47,500.

Apportionment of $12,500 out of $100,000 fund: Road from Robertson county to Highway No. 21 via Mooring, Steeles Store, $1,250; Sandy Point Road, Maudville, Little Brazos, $5,000. Commissioners General Fund, $6,250. Total, $12,500.

Grand total to Precinct No. 3 from both funds, $60,000.

Program for District No. 4

The program of improvement in District No. 4 was left to the discretion of Commissioner John M. Moore. He will have available $5,000 from the $150,000 fund for work outside of Road Districts No. 1 and 2 in his precinct, and $27,500 from the $100,000 fund for work over the entire district.

Conference Committee

The delegations from each rural election precinct chose the following representatives, one from each district, to sit in the conference to make a division among the four commissioner districts of the funds of $150,000 and $100,000.

These were as follows: John D. Rogers of Allen Farm; Sam Dunlap, Millican; D. E. Royder, Wellborn; N. C. Cole, Harvey; J. L. Stansley, College Station; C. M. Risinger, Steep Hollow; W. T. In addition to these representatives from the rural precincts the following Bryan men sat in this conference: John M. Lawrence, chairman; Travis B. Bryan, secretary; W. S. Barron, F. L. Henderson, C. M. Bethany and M. F. Damsky.

Banquet Planned For School Heads By P. T. A. Council

Of these ten are from Bowie, nine from Travis and five from Stephen F. Austin. At the present time, it was reported, the Ninth district, in which Bryan is included, was second in the state in this work.

The council decided to give a banquet for the teachers of the city schools and members of the school board early in September. Mrs. Noyes D. Smith, state president of P. T. A. associations, will be chief speaker. Committees to work out details will be announced at the September meeting.

Scrab Bull Is Haled to Court

Placed on Trial for Hindering Development and Prosperity of Dairy Industry.

Indicted for robbery, larceny, and a few other such charges, Scrab Bull went on trial for his life at Laurel, Mississippi, recently. It seems that for some time people had suspicions that Mr. Bull was hindering the right and lawful development of the dairy industry, thereby "maliciously and wilfully lowering production and decreasing profits in the dairy business," says the Bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission in commenting on the case.

This, it says, was the first trial of the kind ever held in that section and was attended by several hundred people. The jury, representing every vocation within the boundaries of the Laurel trade territory, rendered a unanimous verdict of "guilty." The death sentence was pronounced, "but during the night, before the sentences could be carried out, friends of the convict secretly spirited him away and he has not been seen since."

The arraignment came during the Milk Products Show sponsored by the banks of Laurel. People attending the show had the opportunity of also attending the bull's "trial" and went away firmly convinced of the seriousness of lax and out-of-date methods in the pursuit of dairying. The purposes of both the Milk Products Show and

BY NELL BENTLEY

Dairymen, beef cattle raisers, business men, educational workers and legislators got their feet under the same table during the annual Farmers' Short Course held at the University in Louisiana last week and launched a program of investigation by which they hope to arrive at a decision as to what should be written into a bill to be introduced in the next session of the Louisiana legislature providing for tick eradication campaigns in that state and their ultimate aim is "eradication" and not "campaigns." It is the consensus of opinion among those interested in freeing Louisiana from the handicap and menace of tick fever, that the "perfect bill" must provide for educational campaigns proceeding the actual work of eradication, since the success of dipping campaigns depends so largely upon thoroughness and cooperation, both of which are contingent upon sympathetic understanding on the part of farmers and cattle raisers in the sections where eradication work is being carried on.

The citizen's committee acting in conjunction with a legislative sub-committee, has taken as the basis of their new bill the Ginsberg bill vetoed by the governor of Louisiana last year and they expect to make alterations and eliminations to this bill that will bring it within the scope of approval both of state authorities and of the citizens of the state who will be directly or indirectly affected by the success or failure of the measure in the next session of Louisiana's legal body.

One of the "bones of contention" in the Ginsberg bill and the feature which probably contributed most to its defeat, was the "no fence provision" which places upon the cattle owner the entire obligation of holding cattle that are under dipping regulations out of swamp land and river areas designated as tick infested. It is evident that river bottoms and excess lands which are tick infested or where reinfestation may occur when flood water brings the ticks down stream from infested territory, offers one of the most insurmountable problems of the tick eradication game.

The law under which Mississippi is carrying on eradication work at this time provides that cattle under dipping regulations must be kept confined and not allowed to enter designated areas that are known to be tick infested, and failure on the part of a farmer to comply with this law results in the cattle being placed under police quarantine for a given length of time and makes the owner of same subject to arrest and prosecution if he neglects to keep his cattle confined serves to hinder the progress and success of eradication work being carried on under supervision of state authorities.

Arkansas is also carrying on eradication campaigns, the while giving intensive study and observation to the results of work there, hoping to eliminate faulty policies and adopt more efficacious methods if such may be determined.

Texas, too, is making progress in the matter of evolving methods whereby the fever tick may be routed from its haunts in the southern and eastern sections of the state and it is likely that the coming session of the Texas legislature (provided it is looking for constructive work to do) will spend a good deal of time and effort on the question formulating laws that will remove entirely from the state one of the greatest of its handicaps to agricultural development and rural prosperity.

CHAIN STORE HEAD MADE HOGS PAY

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 13.—

"The first money I ever made," I made by raising hogs," says J. C. Penney, founder of the J. C. Penney Co. and leading figure in banking, publishing, dairying and agricultural interests in many sections of the country.

The extent to which he has adhered to his first instincts is shown in the fact that he now owns one of the greatest herds of purebred Guernsey cattle that has ever been exhibited at state fairs and dairy shows.

Included in the herd is Mixer May Princess, the Guernsey cow with a record of 5 calves in five years and a total production for the same period of 3464 pounds of butter and 6903 gallons of milk. The herd also includes May Royal's Elberta, a heifer which won junior championship in every fair where she was shown last year.

In this day of vocations on the part of public minded men whose vocations have made them into multi-millionaires, Mr. Penney has chosen live stock breeding as his greatest diversion.

"I walk as far, when I inspect Emmaline Farm, as the average golfer walks when he plays eighteen holes," says Mr. Penney, "and I feel that I am walking to a better purpose." Close friends say that he admits playing an indifferent game of golf.

He has been a steady advocate of better sires in the breeding programs of dairy farmers and says the average dairyman is not getting nearly the returns from his dairy herds that he should achieve. Several noted Guernsey herds throughout the country have been developed from foundation stock supplied by Mr. Penney.

In the present attitude of business toward the farmer, Mr. Penney's opinion is widely sought in matters pertaining to crop diversification, stock raising and distribution of farm products. In addition to being widely known for his cattle, he is also recognized as one of the leading breeders of Hampshire sheep, having recently brought 40 of the chosen live stock breeding as his finest animals in this breed from England.

AD VALOREM TAX NOT TO BE RAISED

Per Capita Increase For Schools Will
Be $1.50

SIX NEW BUILDINGS

Proposed for Colleges
Cut by Governor
To Two

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Aug. 15.—Gov. Dan Moody has cut $3,016,000 from the major appropriation bills. The list of vetoed items filed with the secretary of state late last night showed a reduction of the aggregate total of the money measures to $44,776,935.

The vetoes probably will permit fixing the ad valorem tax rate at 22 cents, the amount of the levy in the past year and at not over 25 cents as maximum.

Of six new buildings for state teachers colleges, he let appropriations for only two stand, those at the teachers colleges at Commerce and Alpine.

The governor vetoes new construction for the School of Mines at El Paso, the teachers college at San Marcos and the College of Industrial Arts at Denton and Lubbock.

In the eleemosynary bill he vetoed all salaries for the first year for the psychopathic hospital to be established at either Galveston or Dallas.

The Texas prison system, the state highway department and the railroad commission bore the brunt of the veto. Moody cut the penitentiary bill $126,080; the highway department $64,040; and the state railroad commission $43,680.

Bills the governor had on his desk Friday before he filed his proclamations totaled $42,792,935, including the judiciary, departmental, educational, eleemosynary, and claims and accounts measures. He approved the $5,000,000 rural aid bill. He announced his intention of cutting not less than $2,000,000 from the appropriations in order to bring them within the available revenue with an ad valorem tax rate not to exceed 25 cents. The present rate is 22 cents and the constitutional limit is 35 cents.

The Governor Friday approved the measure requiring the automatic tax board to levy for public school purposes a rate that will assure a per capita apportionment of $17.50 for scholars. The present apportionment is $16. However, the levy shall not exceed 35 cents, the constitutional limit. The 35-cent limit has been levied for several years.

He approved the bill giving the state authority to take over and maintain the Dickson Orphanage for negroes at Gilmer. He struck from it an appropriation of $7,500 to support the orphanage until Sept. 1, when the new biennium begins. The eleemosynary bill contains provisions for the orphanage for the new biennium. It is planned to move the 185 negro children inmates to the State Negro, Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute at Austin.

He approved and filed with the Secretary of State a bill appropriating $85,028.85 out of the state highway fund to pay claims of persons, firms, and corporations for money erroneously paid for license fees on seating capacity of motor vehicles.

Many Good Bolls On Cotton Stalk From Ryan Farm

A stalk of cotton more than four feet tall, bearing about 35 or 40 bolls nearly ready to open and several more young and immature bolls that might escape insect ravages, came to the Eagle office today from W. H. Ryan's farm on Dowmans Creek about 15 miles east and north of Bryan.

Mr. Ryan has about 35 acres of which this stalk is a fair sample. It was planted early this spring and has set on a remarkable crop in spite of the fact that it stood under water more than 24 hours during the heavy rains in the spring.

Mr. Ryan believes in combining livestock with cotton and admits that the day of prosperity from cotton only is a thing of the past in Brazos county. He has quite a dairy herd at present and says he would increase it if conditions incident to getting production to market were improved.

Home Coming Day At Independence Is Sunday, Aug. 25

Sunday, August 25th has been chosen as the date for the celebration of the Sixth Annual Home-Coming Day by the Independence Home-Coming Association.

This organization has for its purpose an annual meeting of old friends, the making of new friends and acquaintances, keeping fresh the tender memories of days gone, and perpetuating, as a shrine, the remaining landmarks of institutions that were dedicated to education, refinement and Christian citizenship.

This announcement is an invitation to all members of the association, former residents, students and friends to plan to attend the celebration this year.

The program committee is asking Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, of Waco, to speak at 11:00 a. m. and Robert Jolly, superintendent of the Baptist Hospital, to direct the song and devotional services. In addition to this there will be sufficient time given for general discussions and reminiscences.

Membership cards will not be sent out this year prior to the meeting, but will be available on the grounds. All members and those desiring membership will be expected to come prepared to take care of membership dues at that time.

The basket picnic dinner will be an important and essential feature this year as heretofore. Other things needed for the comfort of all will be in abundance.

The local committee is expecting and planning for a large and enthusiastic crowd.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—A cotton crop of 15,543,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight is indicated for this year on the condition of the crop on August 1, which was 69.6 per cent of a normal, the department of agriculture announces.

Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to August 1 totaled 86,970 running bales, counting round as half bales, the census bureau announced. To that date last year 88,764 bales had been ginned and in 1927 ginnings totaled 162,283 bales.

Last year's crop was 14,478,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, while the August 1 condition was 67. per cent and the August 1 10-year average condition is 67.3. The indicated crop is estimated on the basis of the acreage in cultivation July 1, which was 46,695,000 acres, less the 10-year average abandonment.

German Postcard Comes To Bryan Lad By The Graf

James Ware, the 13 year old son of Mrs. Chas. Ware of College Station is a happy lad today as a result of receiving a post card from his friend Leroy Denman Jr., of San Antonio, mailed on the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Young Denman is enjoying the summer in Europe in company with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Denman, and so had the opportunity to mail his chum a post card bearing on one side a photograph of the Graf and the following inscription, "L. Z-127, Graf Zeppelin, in Fahrt."

The opposite side bears a special 2 Reichsmark stamp in blue and white, engraved with the Graf passing over a globe and a sticker bearing the words, "Mit Lufts Post," German for "by airpost," and the French equivalent, "Par Avion." Similar stamps on mail carried by the Graf on its previous journey are now quoted at $150.

The message written on the card was as follows: "Dear James, This post card came across the Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin, as you can see by the stamp. I am now in Friedrichshafen, where the Graf was built. Your friend, Leroy Denman."

Young Ware had two letters filed in New York to be carried by the Graf Zeppelin on its journey around the world, one mailed to himself and one to Leroy Denman, Jr.

Paving Program Given Approval

With the exception of East 27th street, between Baker and Pletzer avenues, the paving program recently advertised by the city commission was approved last night and the paving contractors instructed to proceed with the work of signing up the property holders on the streets included in the program.

Work on 31st street between Baker and Ennis has been started and it is expected that pouring of concrete will be started in a few days.

Extension Work At A-M Cut Down By Moody's Veto

In cutting $3,016,000 from the appropriation bills filed with the secretary of state Saturday, Governor Moody cut out of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College Extension Service appropriations for construction, including superintendents' residences, incident to the establishment of a dairy experiment station and others in the Ninth senatorial district, Winter Garden section, and within 50 miles of Abilene. Establishment of these was authorized by the regular session of the Forty-first legislature.

In eliminating buildings at Texas Tech and other schools and colleges, the governor said he was "not convinced that there is urgent need" for these buildings.

New A. and M. sub-station eliminations included provisions for superintendents' residence, assistants' cottages, laborers' cottages, barns, pens, farm machinery, feed-stuffs and miscellaneous equipment.

He permitted the item for "contingent expense" for salaries in A. and M. College to stand although vetoing some salaries.

"If the authorities of the school wish, each salary vetoed can be replaced from this contingent fund," the governor said.

He commented that the "contingent expense" item "means an increase in salary expense and is more than I feel can be allowed at this time," but realizing some of it should be allowed and because he could not reduce the amount, he permitted all of it to stand.

BIG HONEY CROP SOLD BY BRAZOS CO. FARM

J. T. Warren, who lives on Route 4 out of Bryan, was in Bryan today arranging to have labels made for jars in which he will market the honey output from his 40 stands of bees this fall.

Twenty dozen quart and pint jars of honey were marketed from the Warren farm last year. Mr. Warren's bees rustle for their store of honey since he plants no crop specially to provide for them.

Gives Book Covers To County Schools

J. Webb Howell has presented 25,000 school book covers to the school system of the city and county, according to County Superintendent F. M. Vance.

The state laws provide that the books be covered and the gift by Mr. Howell will save the children many nickels, as the average cover is reported to cost that amount.

ALAMO LAND PURCHASE COMMITTEE IS NAMED

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier of Austin, V. B. Proctor of Victoria and Jacob F. Walters of Houston were appointed by Governor Moody Tuesday to serve on the committee to purchase land adjoining the Alamo in San Antonio.

The legislature failed to make an appropriation for the purchase after a $250,000 item was lost in the bills vetoed by the governor.

tor of the super airplane Do-X: Ulrich Raucher, German Minister to Poland; Heinrich Sahn, President of the Free State of Danzig; Ludwig Duerr, Zeppelin constructor, and several Swedish officials on the staff of the Swedish monarch, who is summering on the island of Mainau in Lake Constance.

King Gustav expressed to Dr. Eckener and also to Dornier and Duerr his great admiration of their work for the science of aviation.

Two men who will be exceedingly busy on the coming flight to Tokyo are Radio Operators Dunke and Speck, one of whose tasks will be to determine just what wireless stations can really be worked with during the trans-Asian flight.

During the Zeppelin's flight to America this problem was relatively simple in that the dirigible communicated with Norddeich and Chatham. All they know this time is that they will stick to Norddeich as long as possible.

No Change In Wireless

"We'll even try during the entire journey to reach Norddeich during the night with short wave length," said Peck. "As for the rest of the journey, we'll try as soon as possible to reach Tokyo by wireless, but we will also try Mukden, Irkutsk and Shanghai and such other stations as may respond."

There will be no changes made in the Zeppelin's wireless equipment which is considered adequate as can be expected considering the distance away. Every cylinder is tested, every propeller checked for vibration. The scientific engineers have a slight improvement in the echolog instrument for gauging height above ground and water by the speed of sound and echo throughout the air. This instrument, only infinitesimally affected by clouds, is considered accurate over water and bare ground, but is peculiarly unreliable over forests where the leafy trees apparently diffuse the sound nullifying the echo.

Much of the area on the next leg of the journey is forested, but a sufficient area that is bare makes the echolog a great asset, particularly in foggy weather.

Magnetic Compass Checked
The magnetic compasses have been checked as usual, after all supplies have been loaded aboard. Although the gyroscopic compass will be carried—which does not depend entirely on magnetic influence—it will be used to check the other compasses in flight.

The three wireless operators have been busy tuning their instruments. There are installed one short wave, fifty-watt transmitter and one long wave commercial set. No emergency portable transmitter or receiver are carried, but a four horse-power gasoline motor, part of the electricians' equipment can be used in case of an emergency landing or should the wind driven generator fail.

The framework to support the commercial station is made of lighter metal, but otherwise is similar in design to those carried by ships. The Zeppelin's wireless, so far as the public is concerned, functions just as that on a ship at sea.

There will be no radio beacons on the flight to Tokyo, although it is possible for a Zeppelin raidman to fix the direction of stations ahead, or vice versa.

Short Waves Used

It may be possible, on occasions, or if necessary, to get in touch with the 600-meter Russian stations on the arctic coast, but the stations we are depending on for the communication are the Norddeich, in Germany and that in Mukden, and on the Japanese stations toward the end of the flight. The short wave transmitter works normally at night on 35.4 meters and in the daytime on 25 meters.

However, the best results during the Atlantic crossings were obtained at night on 53 meters with some good transmission on 45.5 meters.

This may be of interest to amateurs who are anxious to test their receivers, but it is useless and undesirable that they attempt to get in touch to work the Zeppelin station, for, what with the weather reports, the time signals, the direction finding, not to mention press and press messages, the Zeppelin operators are extremely busy. Thus, any interference adds materially to their difficulties.

NEW NEGRO SCHOOL

At the meeting of the city commission last night it was decided to move one or more of the temporary school buildings at Stephen F. Austin high school to the negro school site, in order to add to the facilities there.

Struck By Auto Negro Is Killed Worked At A. & M.

In what was termed by Justice J. T. McGee as an unavoidable accident, Uncle Joe Ransom, an aged and faithful negro met almost instant death in front of the post office at College Station on Friday evening at about 5:30 o'clock.

Ransom, who has been head janitor at the Extension Service building on the campus for more than 12 years, had gone to the post office in a car driven by another negro named Will Nicholas. He had attended to depositing mail from the Extension Service department in the office, which was his last responsibility for the day, and stepped from the post office into the road to reenter the car driven by Nicholas for the ride home; when he was struck by a passing car driven by E. A. Strauss, an employee of a construction company engaged in erecting public buildings in Bryan.

Ransom, watching a car moving in the opposite direction from the one driven by Strauss, evidently failed to see Strauss' car, since he stepped into the road immediately behind the other car and into the path of the one driven by Strauss. Strauss did not see Uncle Joe until his car struck him, and was held entirely blameless in the negro's death.

Ransom lived only a few moments after he was taken from the hood of Strauss' car where he was thrown by the impact of the collision and where his forehead was struck by the radiator cap, which blow is thought to have been responsible for his almost instant death.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

County Agent C. L. Beason is exhibiting today a 13 inch limb cut from a Kiefer pear tree at the home of Charlie Forsthooff at Reblance and bearing 18 medium sized well developed pears.

Mr. Forsthooff has several trees of this variety in his home orchard which will furnish an abundance of fruit for his family and some to spare.

SIX NEW BUILDINGS

Proposed for Colleges
Cut by Governor
To Two

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Aug. 15.—Gov. Dan Moody has cut $3,016,000 from the major appropriation bills. The list of vetoed items filed with the secretary of state last night showed a reduction of the aggregate total of the money measures to $44,776,935.

The vetoes probably will permit fixing the ad valorem tax rate at 22 cents, the amount of the levy in the past year and at not over 25 cents as maximum.

Of six new buildings for state teachers colleges, he let appropriations for only two stand, those at the teachers colleges at Commerce and Alpine.

The governor vetoes new construction for the School of Mines at El Paso, the teachers college at San Marcos and the College of Industrial Arts at Denton and Lubbock.

In the eleemosynary bill he vetoed all salaries for the first year for the psychopathic hospital to be established at either Galveston or Dallas.

The Texas prison system, the state highway department and the railroad commission bore the brunt of the veto. Moody cut the penitentiary bill $126,080; the highway department $64,040, and the state railroad commission $43,680.

Bills the governor had on his desk Friday before he filed his proclamations totaled $42,792,935, including the judiciary, departmental, educational, eleemosynary, and claims and accounts measures. He approved the $5,000,000 rural aid bill. He announced his intention of cutting not less than $2,000,000 from the appropriations in order to bring them within the available revenue with an ad valorem tax rate not to exceed 25 cents. The present rate is 22 cents and the constitutional limit is 35 cents.

The Governor Friday approved the measure requiring the automatic tax board to levy for public school purposes a rate that will assure a per capita apportionment of $17.50 for scholars. The present apportionment is $16. However, the levy shall not exceed 35 cents, the constitutional limit. The 35-cent limit has been levied for several years.

He approved the bill giving the state authority to take over and maintain the Dickson Orphanage for negroes at Gilmer. He struck from it an appropriation of $7,500 to support the orphanage until Sept. 1, when the new biennium begins. The eleemosynary bill contains provisions for the orphanage for the new biennium. It is planned to move the 135 negro children inmates to the State Negro, Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institute at Austin.

He approved and filed with the Secretary of State a bill appropriating $85,028.85 out of the state highway fund to pay claims of persons, firms, and corporations for money erroneously paid for license fees on seating capacity of motor vehicles.

Many Good Bolls On Cotton Stalk From Ryan Farm

A stalk of cotton more than four feet tall, bearing about 35 or 40 bolls nearly ready to open and several more young and immature bolls that might escape insect ravages, came to the Eagle office today from W. H. Ryan's farm on Bowman's Creek about 15 miles east and north of Bryan.

Mr. Ryan has about 35 acres of which this stalk is a fair sample. It was planted early this spring and has set on a remarkable crop in spite of the fact that it stood under water more than 24 hours during the heavy rains in the spring.

Mr. Ryan believes in combining livestock with cotton and admits that the day of prosperity from cotton only is a thing of the past in Brazos county. He has quite a dairy herd at present and says he would increase it if conditions incident to getting production to market were improved.

Home Coming Day At Independence Is Sunday, Aug. 25

Sunday, August 25th has been chosen as the date for the celebration of the Sixth Annual Home-Coming Day by the Independence Home-Coming Association.

This organization has for its purpose an annual meeting of old friends, the making of new friends and acquaintances, keeping fresh the tender memories of days gone, and perpetuating, as a shrine, the remaining landmarks of institutions that were dedicated to education, refinement and Christian citizenship.

This announcement is an invitation to all members of the association, former residents, students and friends to plan to attend the celebration this year.

The program committee is asking Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, of Waco, to speak at 11:00 a. m. and Robert Jolly, superintendent of the Baptist Hospital, to direct the song and devotional services. In addition to this there will be sufficient time given for general discussions and reminiscences.

Membership cards will not be sent out this year prior to the meeting, but will be available on the grounds. All members and those desiring membership will be expected to come prepared to take care of membership dues at that time.

The basket picnic dinner will be an important and essential feature this year as heretofore. Other things needed for the comfort of all will be in abundance.

The local committee is expecting and planning for a large and enthusiastic crowd.

1929 Cotton Crop Is Estimated At 15,543,000 Bales

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—A cotton crop of 15,543,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight is indicated for this year on the condition of the crop on August 1, which was 69.6 per cent of a normal, the department of agriculture announced.

Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to August 1 totaled 86,970 running bales, counting round as half bales, the census bureau announced. To that date last year 88,761 bales had been ginned and in 1927 ginnings totaled 162,283 bales.

Last year's crop was 14,478,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, while the August 1 condition was 67. per cent and the August 1 10-year average condition is 67.3. The indicated crop is estimated on the basis of the acreage in cultivation July 1, which was 46,695,000 acres, less the 10-year average abandonment.

The condition of the crop August 1 and the indicated gross weight bales follow:

German Postcard Comes To Bryan Lad By The Graf

James Ware, the 13 year old son of Mrs. Chas. Ware of College Station is a happy lad today as a result of receiving a post card from his friend Leroy Denman Jr., of San Antonio, mailed on the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Young Denman is enjoying the summer in Europe in company with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Denman, and so had the opportunity to mail his chum a post card bearing on one side a photograph of the Graf and the following inscription, "L. Z-127, Graf Zeppelin, in Fahrt."

The opposite side bears a special 2 Reichsmark stamp in blue and white, engraved with the Graf passing over a globe and a sticker bearing the words, "Mit Lufts Post," German for "by airpost" and the French equivalent, "Par Avion." Similar stamps on mail carried by the Graf on its previous journey are now quoted at $150.

The message written on the card was as follows: "Dear James, This post card came across the Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin, as you can see by the stamp. I am now in Friedrichshafen, where the Graf was built. Your friend, Leroy Denman."

Young Ware had two letters filed in New York to be carried by the Graf Zeppelin on its journey around the world, one mailed to himself and one to Leroy Denman, Jr.

Paving Program Given Approval

With the exception of East 27th street, between Baker and Pletzer avenues, the paving program recently advertised by the city commission was approved last night and the paving contractors instructed to proceed with the work of signing up the property holders on the streets included in the program.

Work on 31st street between Baker and Ennis has been started and it is expected that pouring of concrete will be started in a few days.

Extension Work At A-M Cut Down By Moody's Veto

In cutting $3,016,000 from the appropriation bills filed with the secretary of state Saturday, Governor Moody cut out of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College Extension Service appropriations for construction, including superintendents' residences, incident to the establishment of a dairy experiment station and others in the Ninth senatorial district, Winter Garden section, and within 50 miles of Abilene. Establishment of these was authorized by the regular session of the Forty-first legislature.

In eliminating buildings at Texas Tech and other schools and colleges, the governor said he was "not convinced that there is urgent need" for these buildings.

New A. and M. sub-station eliminations included provisions for superintendents' residence, assistants' cottages, laborers' cottages, barns, pens, farm machinery, feed-stuffs and miscellaneous equipment.

He permitted the item for "contingent expense" for salaries in A. and M. College to stand although vetoing some salaries.

"If the authorities of the school wish, each salary vetoed can be replaced from this contingent fund," the governor said.

He commented that the "contingent expense" item "means an increase in salary expense and is more than I feel can be allowed at this time," but realizing some of it should be allowed and because he could not reduce the amount, he permitted all of it to stand.

BIG HONEY CROP SOLD BY BRAZOS CO. FARM

J. T. Warren, who lives on Route 1 out of Bryan, was in Bryan today arranging to have labels made for jars in which he will market the honey output from his 40 stands of bees this fall.

Twenty dozen quart and pint jars of honey were marketed from the Warren farm last year. Mr. Warren's bees rustle for their store of honey since he plants no crop specially to provide for them.

NEW NEGRO SCHOOL

At the meeting of the city commission last night it was decided to move one or more of the temporary school buildings at Stephen F. Austin high school to the negro school site, in order to add to the facilities there.

Struck By Auto Negro Is Killed Worked At A. & M.

In what was termed by Justice J. T. McGee as an unavoidable accident, Uncle Joe Ransom, an aged and faithful negro met almost instant death in front of the post office at College Station on Friday evening at about 5:30 o'clock.

Ransom, who has been head janitor at the Extension Service building on the campus for more than 12 years, had gone to the post office in a car driven by another negro named Will Nicholas. He had attended to depositing mail from the Extension Service department in the office, which was his last responsibility for the day, and stepped from the post office into the road to reenter the car driven by Nicholas for the ride home; when he was struck by a passing car driven by E. A. Strauss, an employee of a construction company engaged in erecting public buildings in Bryan.

Ransom, watching a car moving in the opposite direction from the one driven by Strauss, evidently failed to see Strauss' car, since he stepped into the road immediately behind the other car and into the path of the one driven by Strauss. Strauss did not see Uncle Joe until his car struck him, and was held entirely blameless in the negro's death.

Ransom lived only a few moments after he was taken from the hood of Strauss' car where he was thrown by the impact of the collision and where his forehead was struck by the radiator cap, which blow is thought to have been responsible for his almost instant death.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

Eighteen Pears On 13 Inch Limb Of Kiefer Tree

County Agent C. L. Beason is exhibiting today a 13 inch limb cut from a Kiefer pear tree at the home of Charlie Forsthoef at Reliance and bearing 18 medium sized well developed pears.

While the pears are slightly smaller than usual they are well formed and should have grown larger if left on the tree.

Mr. Forsthoef has several trees of this variety in his home orchard which will furnish an abundance of fruit for his family and some to spare.

Don't Overlook the Woman

Merchandisers of the present day and students of buying factors and habits are a unit today in admitting that the women of America are controlling factors in by far the larger proportion of the buying that is done in this country. Not only do they buy for themselves and their children and for their homes, but they even buy in an increasingly large way for their husbands.

This influence of the mothers and wives of this country also, extends into other fields of endeavor. They are the most potent factors in the establishment, development and maintenance of our churches. They have a similar interest in our public schools and by individual work and through the medium of the parent-teacher association movement, are working consistently and wisely for better educational facilities for the youth of the land—for the children of their neighbors as well as for their own.

In the matter of community betterment that takes into consideration those things that make for better living conditions and fuller and more rounded lives, the wives and mothers of the country always have been in the van, and there is no question but that their children will enjoy the advantages they never knew because of their thoughtfulness and care and self-sacrifice. It is common for men who have achieved to high places and in whose ears ring the plaudits of an admiring world, to give to their wives and mothers the larger credit, again emphasizing the truth of the statement that the "hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world."

To ignore this desire for better conditions of living and better and larger opportunities for the youth of the land that is innate in the wives and mothers of the country, and the power of their influence in bringing these improvements about is, as was said yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Bryan Lions club, a woeful waste and a handicap to improvement in any community.

In this connection attention is called to the influence of the rural wives and mothers of Brazos county in the campaign for improved roads that will bring churches and educational facilities closer to the door of the farm home. They will make possible, too, more frequent trips, despite weather conditions, to markets where those farm products that from time immemorial, almost, have been turned over to the women to develop, garner and market and which, in many instances aid in financing every day living expenses, clothing for themselves and children and to cover those expenses incident to keeping the children longer in school and permitting them to come to Bryan for high school work.

If it is impressed on these women, every one of whom may be assumed to be vitally interested in better advantages for her children, that the improved road system proposed for the county will make the school facilities of Bryan accessible from practically any point in the county, in any kind of weather, a force will be built up and put in motion that should assure the success of the campaign. It is suggested therefore, not only in the interest of good roads but in the further development of the county along lines of value to every resident and in helping prepare the boys and girls of the rural homes for more valuable service in the years to come and to equip them that they may lead fuller and more rounded lives, that the rural wives and mothers of Brazos county be given every consideration by those who will take charge of the good roads campaign in the respective precincts of the county.

Fighting among the industrialists who heretofore have worked with the leaders of the Republican party for higher tariff rates is causing those same leaders much mental anguish at the present time, and their attitude points to a day when tariffs will be planned for protection only and not to foster huge industrial and commercial organizations at the expense of the ultimate consumer.

Some 400,000 persons are reported to have ascended to the top of the Washington monument in the nation's capital for a birdseye view of that city. One trouble in this country is that too many of us are interested in only this sort of view of the capital—and what transpires there.

Reports from The Hague are to the effect that the date of the evacuation of the Rhineland has been fixed and that probably it will be complete before Christmas. Thus is the sting of wars aftermath being eased as former enemies begin to learn that in serving mutual interests each advantages most.

Estimates on airplane production for this year place the number at 7,000. Compare this with the early years of the automobile industry and then figure how rapidly aviation is developing and how important it is that Bryan tie into this movement and prepare to take the greatest possible advantage by establishing an airport.

Peru has decided to return to the League of Nations fold. Study of what has been accomplished, though the functioning of the League has been hampered by the non-membership of this country, should appeal as making membership worth while for any country.

The "Slowfox", danced with dragging steps, is the latest terpsichorean exercise, probably developed in the interest of the gray heads and dowagers who have returned to the dance floor.

Good Work, Well Done

The county wide good roads conference held here yesterday is described by one man who has lived his life in Brazos county and who has attended many meetings of citizens, called for one purpose or another, and who has a wide acquaintance among the citizens of this community. "When you remember", he said, "that some fifty men representing the various election precincts of the county came here, each with definite ideas of the needs of his own section and representing neighbors and friends who in all probability felt as he did, the spirit of harmony and give and take and the county-wide vision demonstrated form an unusual commentary on the high caliber of our citizenship."

The conference on the matter of lateral road improvement in Brazos county, in which a program was worked out for every section of the county that met with the approval of the representatives from all sections, made the decision to petition the county commissioners court for a special election to vote whether or not the county should issue $1,100,000 worth of bonds for road improvement and the retirement of outstanding bonds issued in the past, a certainty, and plans are now being made to send copies of the petition that will be filed into every rural precinct for study and consideration of the citizenship of those sections.

The attitude of the conference on the entire program, which not only contemplates the expenditure of $250,000 on the lateral roads of the county, but $500,000 on Highways 6 and 21—on which the state highway commission will spend approximately four dollars for each one put up by the county—and also the retirement of $326,000 of bonds still outstanding of issues made for road improvement by Road Districts 1 and 2, was shown by the vote on the resolution offered by Charles Merka of Smetana. This was to the effect that the program outlined was worth the money and pledged those voting for it to return to their homes and work to put it into operation. The vote on this was unanimous, so far as the delegates attending the conference were concerned, and other citizens present made their support evident by voting favorably.

There is evidence that the sentiment in favor of the program outlined two weeks ago by the citizens committee, which had been working out the details for about six months, is steadily growing stronger. This is the result of the conferences held in the rural communities during the last two weeks and the publicity that has been given the plan through the press and by word of mouth. It is evident that a very large proportion of the residents of the county believe in good roads and want them. The questions that have been upper-most in the minds of many have been whether or not the plan is worth the money and "If we vote the bonds will we get the roads."

The longer consideration is given the plan from the point of what it will cost this county in return for what the county will get, the better the bargain appears to be. And the action of the conference yesterday, in deciding to work out in definite detail the program for each commissioners district and write that into the petition, making that work obligatory on the county commissioners court in the event the bonds are voted, answers probably the most important question asked by a large number of rural residents. It is a safeguard of their interests that should win their support to the plan, as none of them will dispassionately argue that good roads are not a worth while investment, paying dividends in material profits and in social betterments and proper growth.

The net result of the conference and agreement yesterday not only should be steadily increasing interest in the proposed road that will lead to a vote favorable to it, but to a better understanding among all the citizens of the county, whether of north or south or east or west, of country or of town. And the better we come to know each other, as residents of Brazos county, the better we are bound to appreciate the fact that none of us is independent of the other but that we live in a condition of interdependency and that we can best serve ourselves by first serving those interests that we find are mutual. Only by working together for the common good can we progress to the best advantage. And the spirit of cooperation and desire to serve the best interests of all that marked the conference yesterday is one that should be kept alive, since on the growth and development of this spirit depends in a large way the proper growth and development of this entire community.

Study the Program Carefully

This week the petition calling for a special election to vote on the proposition of whether or not this county shall issue bonds in the amount of $1,100,000 for good roads will be drawn and then circulated among the taxpayers of the county. It will not be presented to the county commissioners court until August 24 and the election will be asked for September 28.

This delay gives full opportunity for all the people of the county to study carefully every phase of the plan for road improvement and especially the program of lateral road improvement in this county.

There is reason to believe that the more study given to the program the more it will appeal to the citizen who is interested in a bargain and who realizes that good roads are essential to the proper and maximum development of the county.

Out in the Pecos area the electrification of the shallow water farming belt is reported completed and the irrigation pumps that have been operated by gasoline engines will be powered by electricity in the future. In addition, many farm homes will be electrically lighted and powered and more farm women will find release from the old time rubbing board and the glowing stove on which the sadirons are heated for the weekly ironing. Individual enterprise cannot accomplish these things, but only combinations of capital. And when we criticize capital—the so-called power trust, for example—we should bear in mind that the lives of millions of men and women have been made easier through developments for which it is responsible. That capital should be controlled in some measure is an acceptable theory, but that it should be eternally lambasted and harassed, as were the railroads a quarter of a century or more ago, is to say that development of wide areas and better methods of living for millions, should be hampered and handicapped.

Final action by Governor Moody on appropriation bills, in which he cut them by more than $3,000,000, probably will result in holding the ad valorem tax rate at 22 cents, with an assured maximum of 25 cents. This makes fine reading for the average citizen but in the meantime educational progress in the state is hampered. It's a grave question whether a minimum tax rate is more desirable than the proper support of educational institutions, the capacity of which is being more heavily taxed year after year. In the final analysis our largest responsibility is to the generation being trained to take our places.

Allred In Ring For Nomination Missed In 1926

(By Associated Press)

GRANBURY, Aug. 14.—Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, who lacked 4,000 votes of being the Democratic nominee for attorney general in 1926, will be a candidate for the office again in 1930, he said here tonight. Allred, speaker on the first night of the Old Soldiers' and Settlers' Reunion, made no formal announcement of his candidacy, but said:

"Many of my friends here in Hood county and over the state generally have asked me whether I am going to be a candidate for attorney general next year. It seems to me that an announcement for office at this time is premature, but, in appreciation of the interest of more than 356,000 of my friends who supported me three years ago, and in justice to the people of Texas, I desire to say that I will be candidate for attorney general for Texas in 1930, and will make a formal announcement at the proper time. I so stated when I congratulated Claude Pollard upon his victory over me at the San Antonio convention in 1926; and I renewed that statement last year when in deference to the time honored Democratic custom of a second term for public officers, I withdrew as his opponent after my friends in Young county had done me the honor to place my name on the ballot."

Allred made no further reference to his candidacy in his address, and spoke entirely along non-political lines.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN—

I am in better position to influence future operations of the schools with scientific information as a background. I even hope that by example as well as precept I may help to influence my co-laborers to a like position.

Then we have measured three good New England school systems very carefully on the grounds and under the direction of the professors in charge. This is valuable.

Finally there has been the association with a vast number of excellent school superintendents from everywhere. Some dozen of whom, I feel, will mold educational opinion over widespread areas of this and other countries. While the class work is altogether too provincial, the rubbing of shoulders with educational leaders from every state of the union, New Zealand, Canada, England, Germany, China and Japan is broadening. Mind you, each of these individuals is doing strictly graduate work. Harvard does not accept in her education department any person who does not hold at least an A. B. or B. S. degree from a reputable institution of learning. This is placing education on the basis of medicine, law, etc.

The summer's work has been extremely trying. I wanted to show these facts that a man could come from a Texas school and stand along with other students from Eastern universities and English universities. I have proven my case but it has been hard on the cat.

The summers are delightful. Up until about eleven o'clock (daylight saving) the temperature is rarely above 60 degrees. I have slept under a blanket most every night.

Hoping that you have had a most pleasant summer, I am sincerely yours.

Newspaper 222 Times Better Than Radio

The relative merits of radio and newspaper advertising is coming in for study by those most interested. Immense sums are being spent for radio advertising—to the interest of some radio fans, and to the disgust of others.

From Cleveland, Ohio, comes a recent news dispatch telling of an actual comparison made of the results of the two kinds of advertising. Roger W. Babson, business statistician of national note, is responsible for the comparison and gave out the statement, which was to the effect that a certain newspaper advertisement published in five cities at a cost of $3,000 brought 222 inquiries for every single inquiry resultant from the same amount of money spent with the radio corporation.

The broadcast was from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock p. m., Saturday, May 18th, Babson said. A well known orchestra played and there was a five minute talk on the Babson service. The result was 16 inquiries and 2 telegraph orders.

On the following Monday the advertisement appeared in the newspapers in Cleveland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. The result was 4,000 inquiries. Babson's figures indicate that each reply from the radio cost $166.66, while those from the newspaper advertising cost 75 cents each.

"When you remember", he said, "that some fifty men representing the various election precincts of the county came here, each with definite ideas of the needs of his own section and representing neighbors and friends who in all probability felt as he did, the spirit of harmony and give and take and the county-wide vision demonstrated form an unusual commentary on the high caliber of our citizenship."

The conference on the matter of lateral road improvement in Brazos county, in which a program was worked out for every section of the county that met with the approval of the representatives from all sections, made the decision to petition the county commissioners court for a special election to vote whether or not the county should issue $1,100,000 worth of bonds for road improvement and the retirement of outstanding bonds issued in the past, a certainty, and plans are now being made to send copies of the petition that will be filed into every rural precinct for study and consideration of the citizenship of those sections.

The attitude of the conference on the entire program, which not only contemplates the expenditure of $250,000 on the lateral roads of the county, but $500,000 on Highways 6 and 21—on which the state highway commission will spend approximately four dollars for each one put up by the county—and also the retirement of $326,000 of bonds still outstanding of issues made for road improvement by Road Districts 1 and 2, was shown by the vote on the resolution offered by Charles Merka of Smetana. This was to the effect that the program outlined was worth the money and pledged those voting for it to return to their homes and work to put it into operation. The vote on this was unanimous, so far as the delegates attending the conference were concerned, and other citizens present made their support evident by voting favorably.

There is evidence that the sentiment in favor of the program outlined two weeks ago by the citizens committee, which had been working out the details for about six months, is steadily growing stronger. This is the result of the conferences held in the rural communities during the last two weeks and the publicity that has been given the plan through the press and by word of mouth. It is evident that a very large proportion of the residents of the county believe in good roads and want them. The questions that have been uppermost in the minds of many have been whether or not the plan is worth the money and "If we vote the bonds will we get the roads."

The longer consideration is given the plan from the point of what it will cost this county in return for what the county will get, the better the bargain appears to be. And the action of the conference yesterday, in deciding to work out in definite detail the program for each commissioners district and write that into the petition, making that work obligatory on the county commissioners court in the event the bonds are voted, answers probably the most important question asked by a large number of rural residents. It is a safeguard of their interests that should win their support to the plan, as none of them will dispassionately argue that good roads are not a worth while investment, paying dividends in material profits and in social betterments and proper growth.

The net result of the conference and agreement yesterday not only should be steadily increasing interest in the proposed road that will lead to a vote favorable to it, but to a better understanding among all the citizens of the county, whether of north or south or east or west, of country or of town. And the better we come to know each other, as residents of Brazos county, the better we are bound to appreciate the fact that none of us is independent of the other but that we live in a condition of interdependency and that we can best serve ourselves by first serving those interests that we find are mutual. Only by working together for the common good can we progress to the best advantage. And the spirit of cooperation and desire to serve the best interests of all that marked the conference yesterday is one that should be kept alive, since on the growth and development of this spirit depends in a large way the proper growth and development of this entire community.

Study the Program Carefully

This week the petition calling for a special election to vote on the proposition of whether or not this county shall issue bonds in the amount of $1,100,000 for good roads will be drawn and then circulated among the taxpayers of the county. It will not be presented to the county commissioners court until August 24 and the election will be asked for September 28.

This delay gives full opportunity for all the people of the county to study carefully every phase of the plan for road improvement and especially the program of lateral road improvement in this county.

There is reason to believe that the more study given to the program the more it will appeal to the citizen who is interested in a bargain and who realizes that good roads are essential to the proper and maximum development of the county.

Out in the Pecos area the electrification of the shallow water farming belt is reported completed and the irrigation pumps that have been operated by gasoline engines will be powered by electricity in the future. In addition, many farm homes will be electrically lighted and powered and more farm women will find release from the old time rubbing board and the glowing stove on which the sadrons are heated for the weekly ironing. Individual enterprise cannot accomplish these things, but only combinations of capital. And when we criticize capital—the so-called power trust, for example—we should bear in mind that the lives of millions of men and women have been made easier through developments for which it is responsible. That capital should be controlled in some measure is an acceptable theory, but that it should be eternally lambasted and harassed, as were the railroads a quarter of a century or more ago, is to say that development of wide areas and better methods of living for millions, should be hampered and handicapped.

Final action by Governor Moody on appropriation bills, in which he cut them by more than $3,000,000, probably will result in holding the ad valorem tax rate at 22 cents, with an assured maximum of 25 cents. This makes fine reading for the average citizen but in the meantime educational progress in the state is hampered. It's a grave question whether a minimum tax rate is more desirable than the proper support of educational institutions, the capacity of which is being more heavily taxed year after year. In the final analysis our largest responsibility is to the generation being trained to take our places.

Allred In Ring For Nomination Missed In 1926

(By Associated Press)
GRANBURY, Aug. 14.—Allred, Wichita Falls attorney, who lacked 4,000 votes of being the Democratic nominee for attorney general in 1926, will be a candidate for the office again in 1930, he said here tonight. Allred, speaker on the first night of the Old Soldiers' and Settlers' Reunion, made no formal announcement of his candidacy, but said:

"Many of my friends here in Hood county and over the state generally have asked me whether I am going to be a candidate for attorney general next year. It seems to me that an announcement for office at this time is premature, but, in appreciation of the interest of more than 356,000 of my friends who supported me three years ago, and in justice to the people of Texas, I desire to say that I will be candidate for attorney general for Texas in 1930, and will make a formal announcement at the proper time. I so stated when I congratulated Claude Pollard upon his victory over me at the San Antonio convention in 1926; and I renewed that statement last year when in deference to the time honored Democratic custom of a second term for public officers, I withdrew as his opponent after my friends in Young county had done me the honor to place my name on the ballot."

Allred made no further reference to his candidacy in his address, and spoke entirely along non-political lines.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN—

I am in better position to influence future operations of the schools with scientific information as a background. I even hope that by example as well as precept I may help to influence my co-laborers to a like position.

Then we have measured three good New England school systems very carefully on the grounds and under the direction of the professors in charge. This is valuable.

Finally there has been the association with a vast number of excellent school superintendents from everywhere. Some dozen of whom, I feel, will mold educational opinion over widespread areas of this and other countries. While the class work is altogether too provincial, the rubbing of shoulders with educational leaders from every state of the union, New Zealand, Canada, England, Germany, China and Japan is broadening. Mind you, each of these individuals is doing strictly graduate work. Harvard does not accept in her education department any person who does not hold at least an A. B. or B. S. degree from a reputable institution of learning. This is placing education on the basis of medicine, law, etc.

The summer's work has been extremely trying. I wanted to show these proofs that a man could come from a Texas school and stand along with other students from Eastern universities and English universities. I have proven my case but it has been hard on the cat.

The summers are delightful. Up until about eleven o'clock (daylight saving) the temperature is rarely above 60 degrees. I have slept under a blanket most every night.

Hoping that you have had a

most pleasant summer, I am sincerely yours.

Newspaper 222 Times Better Than Radio

The relative merits of radio and newspaper advertising is coming in for study by those most interested. Immense sums are being spent for radio advertising—the interest of some radio fans, and to the disgust of others.

From Cleveland, Ohio, comes a recent news dispatch telling of an actual comparison made of the results of the two kinds of advertising. Roger W. Babson, business statistician of national note, is responsible for the comparison and gave out the statement, which was to the effect that a certain newspaper advertisement published in five cities at a cost of $3,000 brought 222 inquiries for every single inquiry resultant from the same amount of money spent with the radio corporation.

The broadcast was from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock p. m., Saturday, May 18th, Babson said. A well known orchestra played and there was a five minute talk on the Babson service. The result was 16 inquiries and 2 telegraph orders.

On the following Monday the advertisement appeared in the newspapers in Cleveland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. The result was 4,000 inquiries. Babson's figures indicate that each reply from the radio cost $166.66, while those from the newspaper advertising cost 75 cents each.

of premeditation, which the state had stressed so emphatically. The defense contended the premeditation charge was contrary to the evidence. They again were overruled.

At the request of defense counsel, a final ruling on the competency of the signed confession will be made by Judge Scarlett in a special charge to the jury. He also will define the law governing self defense in homicide and will propound the rules by which the jury must determine if Snook was emotionally insane at the time of the killing.

The jury then will be charged that its verdict may be any one of the degrees of homicide that the evidence may warrant. These are first degree murder, carrying with it a penalty of death in the electric chair; first degree, with mercy, requiring a life sentence without hope of parole; second degree murder, or manslaughter. The other alternatives of the jury are outright acquittal, not guilty on grounds of self defense, or acquittal on the sole ground of insanity.

presentation to the county commissioners court on August 24, asking for an election September 28 on the question of whether or not the county shall issue bonds in the amount of $1,000,000 for the improvement of two trunk lines and the lateral roads of the county.

These petitions will carry the full program of rural, road improvement as mapped out last Friday, when representatives from every rural precinct of the county met in conference with the commissioners court and members of the citizens committee and apportioned the $250,000 it is proposed to invest in rural road improvement and among the four commissioners districts of the county and then, in conference with their respective commissioners, determined on just what rural roads in each district should be improved.

Petition Found In This Issue
The petitions will be circulated and discussed individually under the direction of the campaign committees in each precinct and at meetings that will be arranged. Every effort will be made to acquaint every taxpayer with all the advantages that will accrue to him from the proposed road improvement and signatures will be obtained from residents of every precinct to the petitions circulated for presentation to the commissioners court.

The complete text of the petition, in which are written the definite schedule of rural, road improvement decided on last Friday, in order to assure that the work will be done and that no broken or evaded promises will develop as the aftermath of the campaign, in the event the bond issue carries, is found on page 4 of this issue of The Bryan Daily Eagle.

A Butter Opportunity

A total of 4,888,000 pounds of butter was made in Alabama, Arkansas and South Carolina in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, according to a recent survey made by a specialist of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. While dairying in these States is not a highly developed industry, this amount of butter represents approximately a 25 per cent increase over the previous year, the bureau says. Based on available population figures for these states this amount of butter is only three-quarters of a pound per capita output with the average per capita consumption of 17.8 pounds in the United States, the bureau suggests there is evidently an opportunity in the home market for much more butter than is being made there at present.—Clip Sheet, U. Brazos Union Lodge No. 129 A. F. and A. M. has been designated as the meeting place for a district educational meeting, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, August 21, according to information received by G. A. Long, W. M.

Wilbur Keith, executive secretary of the Masonic Service Association, and J. B. Leigh, district deputy twenty-ninth district A. F. and A. M., are back of the movement and an interesting and educational program has been prepared. The principal feature of the program will be an illustrated lecture portraying the activities of Masons in the formation of America, before and during the Revolutionary period, while inspirational talks on the ideals and purposes for which Masonry stands will be delivered by prominent Masonic speakers.

This district embraces twelve lodges as follows: Orphans Friend, No. 17, Anderson; Brazos Union, 129, Bryan; Planters, 147, Plantersville; Navasota, 299, Navasota; Cedar Creek, 300, Kurten; Zion, 313, Iola; Pyramid, 593, North Zulch; Bedias, 651, Bedias; Madisonville, 740, Madisonville; Adam Royder, 778, Wellborn; Shiro, 983, Shiro; and Richards, 1116, Richards.

Members from these lodges have been invited to be present and participate in the program, while special invitations have been sent to members of the Masonic lodges in Caldwell, Hearne, Franklin, Calvert, and Normangee.

G. A. Long, W. M., has appointed a reception and entertainment committee and a publicity committee and has requested each member of Brazos Union lodge to become active in broadcasting the facts about the meeting so that all may be permitted to enjoy this unusual occasion.

Former Minister First Methodist Is Visiting Here

Dr. E. W. Solomon, who for 60 years has been an ordained minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church South and who for the past three years has been pastor of the First Methodist church at Jasper, is here for a visit to his son, W. W. Solomon and family.

On Monday evening, August 12, the eve of Dr. Solomon's departure for Bryan to spend his annual vacation, members of his congregation surprised him with a gathering which was to celebrate his 78th birthday. Many gifts expressive of love and appreciation which his friends in Jasper hold for him, were presented to Dr. Solomon during the course of the evening's festivities.

Dr. Solomon was pastor of the First Methodist church here for a number of years and his many friends in this community extend to him a hearty welcome and best wishes for long continued service in his chosen field. It is their delight to know that Dr. Solomon retains his mental alertness and physical ability to participate in every service of his church and also enter actively into the affairs of the Methodist conference at every meeting.

AS OUR NEIGHBORS TO THE SOUTHWEST SEE US

Our neighbor, Brazos county, is pulling for a bond issue of over a million dollars, to build some concrete roads. The proposal will be voted on soon, and no doubt will be successful.

Washington county is fortunate in this respect as the first and only roads we ever had were concrete. No money was ever wasted in this county experimenting with roads.

We are quite sure that Brazos county, with so many progressive people, will put the bond issue over with a bang, and soon be riding on dustless, bumpy roads.—Thomas Blake in the Brenham Banner.

HOUSTON, Aug. 15.—The batting averages of two Harris county justices of the peace so far as kissing brides is concerned is .00009. They have performed 11,350 wedding ceremonies and have only one kissed bride between them.

Justice J. M. Ray administered the long kiss at the insistence of the bridegroom who was his close friend. Six thousand four hundred and seventy-eight other women whom the justice made brides went unkissed—that is, by the justice.

Justice Campbell R. Overstreet has joined in wedlock 4,872 women without kissing a one.

Money For Roads From Government Is Said Too Little

(By Associated Press).
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Despite an appropriation of $75,000,000 for road building in 1928, the United States government is hardly building enough new highways to furnish parking space for the increased registration of automobiles, according to the American Automobile association.

Figures made public today by the association show that in 1928, 170 new automobiles were registered for every mile of new highway constructed under the federal aid program. Allowing an average length of 15 feet per car the newly-registered cars, placed end to end, would extend almost half this distance. With comfortable allowance for parking case, intersections, fire pugs, and no parking areas, there would be little room left.

The A. A. A. announced it will ask congress to increase the appropriation to $125,000,000 for the coming year.

Road Contractor Of Navasota Is Shot And Killed

ATHENS, Aug. 12.—R. B. Truett of Navasota was shot and killed at a highway construction camp nine miles south of here Saturday night. G. A. Eproson, his business associate, gave himself up to officers, and was charged with murder.

Eproson is head of Eproson & Co., a firm specializing in highway construction. The camp in which the shooting took place was one of two maintained by the company near the Modoc community.

Testimony indicating that G. A. Eproson shot in self-defense was given at the inquest conducted at the road camp where the shooting took place.

R. C. Morgan and four other employees of Eproson & Co. testified the shooting took place after Truett and Eproson apparently had been joking with each other. Truett, they said walked to his car and returned with a gun announcing that he was going to shoot Eproson. Ernest Eproson, brother of G. A. Eproson, attempted to interfere, they said, and Truett replied, "I'll shoot you, too, if you don't get out of the way."

At that, witnesses said, Truett raised the gun and fired, and Ernest Eproson struck Truett's hand. The bullet went wild. G. A. Eproson then fired, knocking the gun from Truett's hand. He fired again when Truett attempted to regain it. The second shot struck Truett in the chest and he died a few minutes later.

Judge B. C. Hall, who conducted the inquest, set Eproson's bond at $5000 after the hearing.

The body was brought to Athens. Eproson requested that he be not arrested until he could confer with his attorney and Sheriff Charles Harris agreed, sending a deputy with Eproson while he called a Dallas attorney. The attorney started for Athens immediately and Eproson was taken to jail.

Truett was one of the largest cotton growers in the Navasota region, cultivating a large plantation.

Real Texas Hospitality Dispensed To Brazos County Men On Dairy Tour; Big Job Is Putting Away All Feasts

Brazos county farmers and business men, now making a tour of dairy centers in Central Texas, are being received with open arms, according to word received from the delegation this morning. While gathering all the information possible in regard to profitable methods of dairying and of marketing plans and facilities, the delegation is overlooking no opportunity to sing the praises of Bryan, the home of Allen Academy and A. and M. College, and of Brazos county.

At Round Rock yesterday, the first stop on the tour, the local men were met by a group of business men and dairymen and inspected the cheese plant at that place. Going on to Austin two creameries and an ice cream factory were visited and then the delegation met Governor Moody and made a tour of the capitol. Later the local men were the guests of the Austin Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon, described as "great."

Eating apparently is one of the big jobs of the tour because the local men were lunched again at San Marcos, where there was a big delegation of business men and dairymen on hand and a bountiful feast was provided. At New Braunfels the Elband creamery was visited and a wonderful Holstein herd inspected. The biggest reception of the day was received there and the dinner is reported as having been beyond description.

The delegation spent the night at Floresville, at the home of County Agent E. D. Beck on the Wilson county fair grounds. This morning they enjoyed a 6 o'clock breakfast, given on the lawn of the Beck home by the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Beck, who was a Brazos county girl, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fore Jr., had charge of the breakfast. After breakfast the tourists inspected the Curtis and Franklin Jersey herds. They learned that Wilson county is a diversified farming center with sixteen daily milk routes to San Antonio and an annual production of $275,000.

At Falfurrias today at noon the Chamber of Commerce there will entertain the visitors and will inspect the Lasater herd and creamery.

This evening the party will be entertained at Kingsville by the Chamber of Commerce and tomorrow morning will inspect the King ranch, one of the largest in the state.

Analysis Lists Of Fertilizers Are Now Revised

Fertilizer manufacturers doing business in Texas met at Tyler, July 24, in conference with Dr. G. S. Fraps, state chemist and in charge of the enforcement of the fertilizer law of Texas, College Station, dropping several old analyses and adding a number of new ones.

The group voted that no fractional grades be registered in highway complete fertilizers or materials except cottonseed meal and bone meal.

Dr. Fraps called attention to the fact that beginning September 1, 1929, fertilizer analysis would be stated in the order of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash instead of phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash as at present.

Dr. Fraps, who was unanimously elected chairman, was given a rising vote of thanks for the time he had given to the work and his fair rulings on the various problems arising. Dr. J. H. Stallings, agronomist, soil improvement work, the National Fertilizer Association, Shreveport, was the unanimous choice for secretary.

Methodist Women Meet In Groups

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met in groups on Wednesday afternoon as follows:

Group No. 5 met at the home of Mrs. J. W. James. The chairman opened the meeting with a scripture lesson from Proverbs 22, after which Mrs. O. A. Ashworth, led in prayer. After a short business session the hostess served a delicious iced drink.

The lesson on "The Early Prophets" was led by Mrs. J. W. Black. Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. O. A. Ashworth, Mrs. J. W. Black, Mrs. W. L. Tucker, Mrs. N. N. Snapp, Mrs. J. N. Dulaney and Mrs. J. W. James.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pressley have taken one of the Batts apartments on east 28th street and will occupy same about August 15.

Gasoline Tax Costs City About $100 Annually; Fort Worth May Seek Evasion Of Whole Amount

Whether or not the state has the legal right to collect the gasoline tax from municipalities has been raised in Fort Worth, where it has been tentatively planned to purchase a quantity of gasoline in Oklahoma, thus making it necessary for the state to file suit to collect the tax. It is held by city officials of Fort Worth that the state has no right to levy a tax on a municipality. In the case of that city the tax will cost the city approximately $15,000 annually.

In the city of Bryan affidavits are filed each month setting forth the amount of gasoline used in the city's tractors, used in street work, and for stationary engines. On this amount rebates will be sought, amounting to between $175 and $200 per month. The question of whether gasoline used as in city owned automobiles, fire trucks and other motor equipment is not yet decided and will not until the matter is thrown into the courts by some such action as that considered by Fort Worth.

The point is taken, however, that the motor vehicles owned by the city of Bryan do not operate outside of the city limits or on state owned or maintained roads but only on the streets of the city toward which neither county or state contribute for upkeep, and that it is a question if it is legal for city money to be expended outside the city, as is done when a direct gasoline tax is levied and the funds resulting are spent here and there over the state.

Bryan uses approximately 10,000 gallons of gasoline each year and approximately one half of this is used in tractors and stationary engines. The other half is used in other motor vehicles and at the present time carries the 4 cent tax.

TALK TO COMMISSION

Chamber of Commerce Approves Road Program

Discussion of the possibility of an airport for Bryan by the directors of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce brought out the fact that the city commission has been asked to submit an amendment to the city charter that will permit the city to purchase land for airport purposes.

As a representative of the chamber F. L. Cavitt, chairman of the city development committee, appeared before the commission with this suggestion after a meeting of the city development and finance committees of the Chamber of Commerce.

At the present time, it is said, the finances of the city will not permit any action along this line but developments of the next few months may put a different complexion on this matter.

Chairman Travis B. Bryan of the highway committee reported on the meeting held last Friday at the court house, when representatives of every rural election precinct in the county met in conference with the county judge and commissioners and members of the citizens good roads program, for the purpose of dividing the $250,000 it is proposed to invest in rural road improvement in a manner satisfactory to all sections of the county.

The directors went on record as approving the proposed program and to aid and support it in every manner possible.

Those present at the meeting this morning were: George A. Adams, Travis B. Bryan, W. L. Gibbs, H. O. Ferguson, F. L. Henderson, W. S. Higgins, J. Webb Howell, J. Bryan Miller, M. L. Parker, M. F. Vitopil, E. E. Yeager.

Builds New Stadium

ROLLEN J. WINDROW

The new football stadium at A. and M. College is being built by Rolien J. Windrow, member of the class of 1906, who is now a well known contractor of Dallas. He states that while he has tackled many larger jobs than this none has given him more "kick" than that of building a top-notch stadium for A. and M. The new structure is to be ready by November 20, and in order to do this it may be necessary to work 24-hour shifts at least part of the time during construction. But Mr. Windrow says the job will be completed by that time and that there will be plenty of room as well as points of vantage, for football fans this year and in the seasons to come.

Brides Go Unkissed By Houston Justices

(By Associated Press).
HOUSTON, Aug. 15.—The batting averages of two Harris county justices of the peace so far as kissing brides is concerned is .0000. They have performed 11,350 wedding ceremonies and have only one kissed bride between them.

Justice J. M. Ray administered the long kiss at the insistence of the bridegroom who was his close friend. Six thousand four hundred and seventy-eight other women whom the justice made brides went unkissed—that is, by the justice.

Justice Campbell R. Overstreet has joined in wedding 1,872 women without kissing a one.

Money For Roads From Government Is Said Too Little

(By Associated Press).
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Despite an appropriation of $75,000,000 for road building in 1928, the United States government is hardly building enough new highways to furnish parking space for the increased registration of automobiles, according to the American Automobile association.

Figures made public today by the association show that in 1928, 170 new automobiles were registered for every mile of new highway constructed under the federal aid program. Allowing an average length of 15 feet per car the newly-registered cars, placed end to end, would extend almost half this distance. With comfortable allowance for parking case, intersections, fire pugs, and no parking areas, there would be little room left.

The A. A. A. announced it will ask congress to increase the appropriation to $125,000,000 for the coming year.

Road Contractor Of Navasota Is Shot And Killed

ATHENS, Aug. 12.—R. B. Truett of Navasota was shot and killed at a highway construction camp nine miles south of here Saturday night. G. A. Eproson, his business associate, gave himself up to officers, and was charged with murder.

Eproson is head of Eproson & Co., a firm specializing in highway construction. The camp in which the shooting took place was one of two maintained by the company near the Modoc community.

Testimony indicating that G. A. Eproson shot in self-defense was given at the inquest conducted at the road camp where the shooting took place.

R. C. Morgan and four other employees of Eproson & Co. testified the shooting took place after Truett and Eproson apparently had been joking with each other. Truett, they said, walked to his car and returned with a gun announcing that he was going to shoot Eproson. Ernest Eproson, brother of G. A. Eproson, attempted to interfere, they said, and Truett replied, "I'll shoot you, too, if you don't get out of the way."

At that, witnesses said, Truett raised the gun and fired, and Ernest Eproson struck Truett's hand. The bullet went wild. G. A. Eproson then fired, knocking the gun from Truett's hand. He fired again when Truett attempted to regain it. The second shot struck Truett in the chest and he died a few minutes later.

Judge B. C. Hall, who conducted the inquest, set Eproson's bond at $5000 after the hearing.

The body was brought to Athens. Eproson requested that he be not arrested until he could confer with his attorney and Sheriff Charles Larriss agreed, sending a deputy with Eproson while he called a Dallas attorney. The attorney started for Athens immediately and Eproson was taken to jail.

Truett was one of the largest cotton growers in the Navasota region, cultivating a large plantation.

Real Texas Hospitality Dispensed To Brazos County Men On Dairy Tour; Big Job Is Putting Away All Feasts

Brazos county farmers and business men, now making a tour of dairy centers in Central Texas, are being received with open arms, according to word received from the delegation this morning. While gathering all the information possible in regard to profitable methods of dairying and of marketing plans and facilities, the delegation is overlooking no opportunity to sing the praises of Bryan, the home of Allen Academy and A. and M. College, and of Brazos county.

At Round Rock yesterday, the first stop on the tour, the local men were met by a group of business men and dairymen and inspected the cheese plant at that place. Going on to Austin two creameries and an ice cream factory were visited and then the delegation met Governor Moody and made a tour of the capitol. Later the local men were the guests of the Austin Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon, described as "great."

Eating apparently is one of the big jobs of the tour because the local men were lunched again at San Marcos, where there was a big delegation of business men and dairymen on hand and a bountiful feast was provided. At New Braunfels the Elband creamery was visited and a wonderful Holstein herd inspected. The biggest reception of the day was received there and the dinner is reported as having been beyond description.

The delegation spent the night at Floresville, at the home of County Agent E. D. Beck on the Wilson county fair grounds. This morning they enjoyed a 6 o'clock breakfast, given on the lawn of the Beck home by the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Beck, who was a Brazos county girl, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fore Jr., had charge of the breakfast. After breakfast the tourists inspected the Curtis and Franklin Jersey herds. They learned that Wilson county is a diversified farming center with sixteen daily milk routes to San Antonio and an annual production of $275,000.

At Fairfairs today at noon the Chamber of Commerce there will entertain the visitors and will inspect the Lasater herd and creamery.

This evening the party will be entertained at Kingsville by the Chamber of Commerce and tomorrow morning will inspect the King ranch, one of the largest in the state.

Analysis Lists Of Fertilizers Are Now Revised

Fertilizer manufacturers doing business in Texas met at Tyler, July 24, in conference with Dr. G. S. Fraps, state chemist and in charge of the enforcement of the fertilizer law of Texas, College Station, dropping several old analyses and adding a number of new ones.

The group voted that no fractional grades be registered in either complete fertilizers or materials except cottonseed meal and bone meal.

Dr. Fraps called attention to the fact that beginning September 1, 1929, fertilizer analysis would be stated in the order of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash instead of phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash as at present.

Dr. Fraps, who was unanimously elected chairman, was given a rising vote of thanks for the time he had given to the work and his fair rulings on the various problems arising. Dr. J. H. Stallings, agronomist, soil improvement work, the National Fertilizer Association, Shreveport, was the unanimous choice for secretary.

of premeditation, which the state had stressed so emphatically. The defense contended the premeditation charge was contrary to the evidence. They again were overruled.

At the request of defense counsel, a final ruling on the competency of the signed confession will be made by Judge Scarlett in a special charge to the jury. He also will define the law governing self defense in homicide and will propound the rules by which the jury must determine if Snook was emotionally insane at the time of the killing.

The jury then will be charged that its verdict may be any one of the degrees of homicide that the evidence may warrant. These are first degree murder, carrying with it a penalty of death in the electric chair; first degree, with mercy, requiring a life sentence without hope of parole; second degree murder, or manslaughter. The other alternatives of the jury are outright acquittal, not guilty on grounds of self defense, or acquittal on the sole ground of insanity.

The petitions will be circulated and discussed individually under the direction of the campaign committees in each precinct and at meetings that will be arranged. A Butter Opportunity

A total of 4,888,000 pounds of butter was made in Alabama, Arkansas and South Carolina in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, according to a recent survey made by a specialist of the Bureau of Dairy Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. While dairying in these States is not a highly developed industry, this amount of butter represents approximately a 25 per cent increase over the previous year, the bureau says. Based on available population figures for these states this amount of butter is only three-quarters of a pound per inhabitant. Comparing this low per capita output with the average per capita consumption of 17.8 pounds in the United States, the bureau suggests there is evidently an opportunity in the home market for much more butter than is being made there at present.—Clip Sheet, U. Survey Ordered Of Old Trail By Road Commission

Improvement of the San Antonio Trail, provided for by the 41st Legislature, and in which residents of Brazos county are vitally interested, is now in the hands of the state highway commission and steps already have been taken to commence this work.

In a telephone message to Bryan Thursday evening R. S. Sterling of Houston, chairman of the commission, stated that the commission had ordered a survey of the Trail to be made and that this would be done shortly. Following that, he said, the work of improvement would go ahead just as rapidly as possible, considering the number of similar projects which the commission has on hand at this time.

According to Chairman Sterling the improvement of this route is a certainty of the comparatively near future.

Brazos County Chickens Score Well At Both College and San Antonio Egg Laying Contests; Improve Rank

Brazos county chickens of both the Barred Plymouth and the S. C. White Leghorn varieties, scored again in both the 12th Texas National Egg-Laying Contest at A. & M. College and the Southwest National Egg-Laying Contest at San Antonio. The Golden Rule and College View farms both have pens entered in the local contest and the Golden Rule farm has entries in the San Antonio contest.

The Golden Rule farm's pen of White Leghorns in July, the ninth month of the contest, took first honors in the contest at College for the fifth consecutive month, making a score of 296 eggs. This pen also moved into third place in the list for the contest to date, while the College View farm pen was displaced from this position and now stands fourth.

In the list of high individuals for the month the Golden Rule farm had three Leghorns tied for third place, each laying 29 eggs and in the high individual contest to date the Barred Plymouth from this farm stand second and third among the first ten.

The Golden Rule Barred Rocks again lead in this class with the high pen and also with the high hen. The score for the month was 203 eggs with a total for the contest of 1,711 eggs.

At San Antonio the Golden Rule pen of Leghorns stands seventh in the contest to date with a total of 2,126 eggs, and this farm had two individuals among the first ten, both tying for third place. In the individual contest to date the Golden Rule farm has two hens, one in third place and one in sixth.

Just as in the local contest the Golden Rule farm's Barred Rocks are leading at San Antonio. The pen was high in July and also is high to date and a hen from this pen won high individual honors for the month and another hen from the same pen is the high individual to date.

The Golden Rule and College View farms both have pens entered in the local contest and the Golden Rule farm has entries in the San Antonio contest.

The Golden Rule farm's pen of White Leghorns in July, the ninth month of the contest, took first honors in the contest at College for the fifth consecutive month, making a score of 296 eggs. This pen also moved into third place in the list for the contest to date, while the College View farm pen was displaced from this position and now stands fourth.

The score for the month was 203 eggs with a total for the contest of 1,711 eggs.

Plan New Well In Carlos Area Says Local Man

It was stated by M. E. Wallace today that drilling operation has been suspended at the Carlos well since the drilling contract has been completed and it is the consensus of opinion among those interested that the location of that well is off structure and additional effort in that case would be futile.

A new location will be made in the near future and drilling will begin as soon as the machinery can be moved and put in place, according to Mr. Wallace, a local man who has been active in promoting oil development in this section for several years.

When asked about the possibilities of finding gas in this section, Mr. Wallace stated that a gas strata was found in place, but that a very fine gas sand was encountered which according to experts, it would be impossible to screen out effectively.

No Medical Aid Found For Hours For Injured Man

J. C. Butler whose home is in Fort Worth and who has been employed as a hoisting engineer at the new First State Bank and Trust Company building now under construction here, was seriously injured when a car driven by him collided with a grading truck on the new highway between College Station and Wellborn about 10:30 on Saturday night.

Butler, badly cut and bruised and with his chest penetrated by the steering post, was brought to Bryan by passing tourists who attempted to secure medical attention for him and who finally left him in the care of C. W. Sharpe, his former employer.

Mr. Sharpe is responsible for the statement that no attention could be secured for the injured man until after 2 a. m. on Sunday. Butler was placed on the north-bound I. and G. N. train Sunday and sent to his home in Fort Worth. His condition is regarded by Mr. Sharpe as being serious.

Dairy Favored By Tabor Farmers To Boost Profit

Joe Locke of Zack and Walter Armstrong of Tabor were business visitors in Bryan on Saturday.

Discussing the present situation as to cotton yields in Brazos county, they both expressed themselves as believing that the day has come when local farmers must adopt a farming program that includes dairying and stock raising as well as cotton.

Good roads and an adequate market for dairy products are essential to the success of such a program, according to Mr. Locke and Mr. Armstrong, who are two of Brazos county's most successful farmers.
